A social hour with dancing and refreshments followed.

DON'T WAIT

Take Advantage of Norwich Citizen's Experience Before It's Too Late.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic. Till serious kidney troubles develop; Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by a Norwich citizen's experience. Mrs. Roland Ockery, 292 Franklin Street, Norwich, Conn., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills brought me great relief from pains in the small of my back which had caused me great suffering. Whenever I stooped, sharp twinges darted through my body and I was handicapped in doing my housework. I felt miserable when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from N. D. Sevin & Sons Drug Store, but their effect was soon noticeable and I continued taking them until my trouble was entirely removed."

The above statement was given August 24, 1908, and on July 29, 1911, Mrs. Ockery said: "You may continue to publish my former statement in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of kidney trouble and I have been in good health since. Other members of my family have taken this remedy with excellent results."

Cured in His Own Home Town. NORWICH, CONN. Louis Frazier, 4 Market St., tells the way for his fellow townsmen to be cured of kidney and bladder ailments, as he himself was cured. "I have been subject to backaches, due to kidney trouble, for a long time. Hearing of Foley Kidney Pills, I began taking them, and they gave me relief at once. I can recommend them to anyone, both as a great cure, and a sure preventive of kidney trouble." Lee & Osgood Co.

WESTERLY'S REMAINING LICENSE

Refused Leonard House and New Park Hotel—Granted Charles D. Havens—Brucker Camp Elects Bourdon A. Babcock Commander.

The issuing of a liquor license is ordinarily of little consequence, but the remaining one held up by the Westerly town council has caused more talk and more apparent local interest than a presidential election or the last prize fight for the world's championship. The town council gave public hearing on the applications for this license at the town hall Friday afternoon and there was a larger attendance than at the annual financial town meeting. At the session when the other sixteen liquor licenses were granted a month ago, every member of the council was present. The applications were considered in the order that they were received.
Joseph Recchia applied for a license at 79 Granite street or for a building to be erected east of that place. Remonstrance was filed by the owners of the majority of land within 200 feet of the building and therefore placed beyond council action favorable to the applicant. Attorney Samuel H. Davis stated that the remonstrants owned over two-thirds of the land within the 200 feet radius and that the purpose of this application, and that the applicant is being used as a tool, and I say to you now that the time has come when you must serve either the lawless or the law-abiding people of the town. It is up to you, councilmen. Why not decide this matter now in open session, and if there are councilmen who have promised to favor this application let them stand up and say so. I insist that decisions on the 200 feet limitation in this case be given in open meeting, and now."

Then came the nub of the whole application, the application of Horace F. Sisson for a license at the Leonard house, 65 Main street. There were two remonstrances against this license signed by the owners of more than one-half of the land within the 200 feet radius. Attorney Davis appeared for the remonstrants and questioned the legality of the council to reopen the hearing on this application after it had been turned down, and there was no reason in putting the remonstrants and others to additional expense. He decided to have exception noted that there was no procedure in law that warranted such action. A rather unusual question of law has been raised and claim made that measurement be taken from the entrance to 65 Main street and not from the corner of the building. He was sorry that the supreme court had never passed on that phase of the question. The law says 200 feet from the building or place and the natural measurement is from the center of the building and the plats filed showed such measurements, and also from the corner of the building in which it was intended to locate the saloon. The petitioner does not specify location other than the front door, No. 65, and it is sure the saloon would not be located in the entry. Mr. Davis informed the councilmen that they could not legally grant this license for 65 Main street.

Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun, counsel for applicant, defended the action of the council in reopening the case, and it was wholly within the right of the council. He then discussed the measurement feature of the case, calling attention to the omission made in the 200 feet radius plat presented by the remonstrants of the Pawcatuck river, and including in the plat Commerce street, which is a traveled highway. Mr. Rathbun also called attention to the discrepancies of figures in the three plats submitted and all drawn by the same surveyor. He questioned the correctness of the measurements.

Mr. Agard defined the law in regard to that point. It is specified that remonstrants owning the majority of land within 200 feet of the building or place where application is made for a saloon can remonstrate and no license can be issued if such remonstrance is made. If the petitioner had designated the place in the building where it was intended to locate a saloon, the remonstrants would naturally be taken from that place. The petitioner failed to name the place and therefore the council was not bound to take the place from that place. If the remonstrants own the necessary quantity of land within the prescribed distance, that settles it. In this case the remonstrants seem to be within the law, and therefore, in his opinion, the town council had no jurisdiction and was without authority to grant the license.

Councilman Flynn said that so far as he could see the subject matter had been narrowed down to the point as to whether the Leonard house was prohibited from having liquor license by reason of the owners of a majority of the land within the 200 feet radius had remonstrated. That was a question of law, he said, and asked Harry B. Agard, town solicitor, for light on the subject.

or, rather, the starting point of the radius, and stated that the council had jurisdiction.

Attorney Davis made declaration that Commerce street was a private way and was the property of some of the remonstrants, and that the majority of property bordering on the Pawcatuck river, within the radius, was owned by remonstrants, but was treated as neutral in the plat. He told the councilmen that they had no right to consider their powers greater than the courts of the state, and referred to the laws of New York and Massachusetts regarding similar measurements.

Congressman George H. Utter made demand upon the councilmen that they render decision without delay, as to jurisdiction in regard to the remonstrance relative to the 200 feet limitation, as clearly defined by law. He said if decision was given in accordance with the facts he would have nothing to say; but that if contrary action was taken he would have to say. He said he asked the councilmen to decide the point now, and added: "We know the purpose of this application, and that the applicant is being used as a tool, and I say to you now that the time has come when you must serve either the lawless or the law-abiding people of the town. It is up to you, councilmen. Why not decide this matter now in open session, and if there are councilmen who have promised to favor this application let them stand up and say so. I insist that decisions on the 200 feet limitation in this case be given in open meeting, and now."

Rev. Samuel M. Cathcart applauded Congressman Utter's remarks with "Heart! Heart!" and said that the citizens demanded that the business of the town be done in open meeting. Mr. Cathcart added: "If decision is given against the remonstrance we will not keep still."

Councilman Maurice W. Flynn declared that he took no stock in threats and that if Congressmen Utter, Mr. Cathcart or any other man had anything to say let them say it and say it in open meeting. He said he was not going to be considered as one who was afraid to have his every act as a councilman in the floodlight of public discussion. Reference has been made to secret sessions relative to liquor licenses. There have been no secret sessions, as the doors of the council chamber are open to the public. He said he was in favor of a license for 65 Main street, provided there were no legal obstacles. If the plan came within the 200 feet prohibition distance he would cheerfully acquiesce. He agreed with Congressman Utter that that point be settled now.

Councilman William Culley said secret sessions were not what they were supposed to be and that he believed in doing the public business in public as much as possible. He would like to know the meaning of the threats of Congressman Utter and would like to see him wield the broad axe, if he had the power, and how close to the door and let the chips fly where they may.

lication for license in the Leonard house was unanimously refused.

Next came the application of Charles P. Taft for license for the New Park hotel in High street. Remonstrance was filed against the application by the majority of property owners in the immediate vicinity. Attorney George H. McKenna made a strong plea for the applicant and questioned the right of an individual to sign the protest for an incorporation or estate. Dr. M. H. Scanlon said that the remonstrants represented 37,284 square feet of property and the non-remonstrants 34,344 feet. The application was refused.

Councilman Albert H. Langworthy then made a motion that the liquor license be granted Charles D. Havens of Canal street and the motion was unanimously adopted. Havens did business under the Durham license last year and was the only license that was held up by the council at the first session, when the sixteen others were granted.

Brucker camp, department of Rhode Island, United Spanish War Veterans, in annual meeting elected these officers: Bourdon A. Babcock, commander; John L. Bentley, senior vice commander; Joseph Herbst, junior vice commander; Stephen O'Toole, officer of day; John E. Fallon, officer of guard.

John McNalley, chaplain; Henry W. Sullivan, trustee for three years.

The officers-elect will be installed by Department Commander Barker and staff on the evening of Jan. 18, and after the installation there will be a campfire. A committee composed of John L. Bentley, John E. Fallon and John Burke will arrange for the event. The new uniforms issued to members will be worn at the installation ceremony.

At Friday's session of the Third district court, Judge Oliver H. Williams, the suit of Catherine R. Welch against C. Henry Schwaner was declared defaulted by failure to answer. This is an action to recover rental for the Schwaner City Market, in the James A. Welch building. The case was continued for proof of claim. The only case tried was that of Rouse E. Chase against Albert H. Langworthy, an action to recover $150, alleged to be due for labor, time and commission for the sale of property known as the Laurel Hill pasture lot on the Post road. Judgment was given for defendant to recover costs.

Congregational Grads' Roll.
The Grads' Roll of the Congregational church held a sale in the church vestry Friday afternoon, under the direction of the superintendent, Mrs. E. A. Faust. There were fancy articles for sale by Ethel Thompson, Emma Campbell, Edith Potts, Marion Eichelberg and Anna Littlefield. Mrs. S. P. Brown poured tea and chocolate at a dainty tea table, and Isabel Men shall and Bernice Wolfe served them with wafers and cake. Gladys Jeffers, Beaser Thompson, Daisy Young and Alice Shaw were at the candy table. Red bells and lanterns and wreaths with Santa Claus paper decorations, and an evergreen hedge all went towards making a very attractive room.
